TO SEE THE FUTURE LOOK TO THE PAST

by Howard Nema

“Those whose forget the past are condemned to repeat it.”

George Santayana

Indeed.

Past is prologue. But true history is often ignored or suppressed. The illumination of truth becomes brighter when the past becomes present, as is happening today.

The problem is, most do not tie predictions from the past to the events of the present, especially if they have been suppressed by the controlled mainstream media.

To understand why the rich are getting richer and the poor are getting poorer and why our rights are being stripped, why Big Brother is watching, why there is a rising police state, and why the world is in embroiled in constant turmoil, we must look to the past.

In quotes from “Tragedy and Hope” (1966) by Georgetown Professor Carroll Quigley we can see the causes and effects that have come to pass over time.

There is indeed a direct correlation between the past and the present and a clearly visible view of our future— or atleast the path we are presently travelling on.

“The powers of financial capitalism had another far-reaching aim, nothing less than to create a world system of financial control in private hands able to dominate the political system of each country and the economy of the world as a whole.
This system was to be controlled in a feudalist fashion by the central banks of the world acting in concert, by secret agreements arrived at in frequent meetings and conferences.

The apex of the systems was to be the Bank for International Settlements in Basel, Switzerland, a private bank owned and controlled by the world’s central banks which were themselves private corporations.

Each central bank sought to dominate its government by its ability to control Treasury loans, to manipulate foreign exchanges, to influence the level of economic activity in the country, and to influence cooperative politicians by subsequent economic rewards in the business world.

“In 1891, Cecil Rhodes organized a secret society with members in a Circle of Initiates and an outer circle known as the Association of Helpers later organized as the Round Table organization. In 1909-1913, they organized semi-secret groups known as Round Table Groups in the chief British dependencies and the United States.

In 1919, they founded the Royal Institute of International Affairs. Similar Institutes of International Affairs were established in the chief British dominions and the United States where it is known as the Council on Foreign Relations.

After 1925, the Institute of Pacific Relations was set up in twelve Pacific area countries.

They were constantly harping on the lessons to be learned from the failure of the American Revolution and the success of the Canadian federation of 1867 and hoped to federate the various parts of the empire and then confederate the whole with the United Kingdom. …

There does exist and has existed for a generation, an international Anglophile network which operates to some extent in the way the Radical Right believes the Communists act.

In fact, this network, which we may identify as the Round Table Groups, has no aversion to cooperating with the Communists, or any other groups, and frequently does so.

I know of the operations of this network because I have studied it for twenty years and was permitted for two years, in the early 1960s, to examine its papers and secret records.

I have no aversion to it or to most of its aims and have, for much of my life, been close to it and to many of its instruments.

I have objected, both in the past and recently, to a few of its policies but in general my chief difference of opinion is that it wishes to remain unknown, and I believe its role in history is significant enough to be known.”
“I am now quite sure that 'Tragedy and Hope' was suppressed although I do not know why or by whom.”

Indeed, Mr. Quigley. But I bet you had a very good idea. Quigley died in 1977.

Quigley notes that “the organization was so modified and so expanded by Milner after the eclipse of Stead in 1899, and especially after the death of Rhodes in 1902, that it took on quite a different organization and character, although it continued to pursue the same goals.”

The society consisted of an inner circle known as “The Society of the Elect” and an outer circle called “The Association of Helpers”, also known as The Round Table or the Milner Kindergarten.

“The society as a whole does not have a fixed name. This society has been known at various times as Milner’s Kindergarten, as the Round Table Group, as the Rhodes crowd, as The Times crowd, as the All Souls group, and as the Cliveden set.

I have chosen to call it the Milner group. Those persons who have used the other terms, or heard them used, have not generally been aware that all these various terms referred to the same Group this Group is, as I shall show, one of the most important historical facts of the twentieth century.”

Quigley give exclusive credit for many historical events including the Jameson Raid, the Second Boer War, the founding of the Union of South Africa, the replacement of the British Empire with the Commonwealth of Nations, and a number of Britain’s foreign policy decisions in the twentieth century.

An interesting note, Quigley’s mentor was Bill Clinton, a beloved and protected inner circle puppet of the global elite.

With chaos in the middle east and the rise of radical Islam around the world we must understand that in 1998 it was Clinton, not Bush who first read from the weapons of mass destruction script.

“Where truth the mainstream media ignores is the top story!”
‘One basic truth can be used as a foundation for a mountain of lies, and if we dig down deep enough in the mountain of lies, and bring out that truth, to set it on top of the mountain of lies; the entire mountain of lies will crumble under the weight of that one truth, and there is nothing more devastating to a structure of lies than the revelation of the truth upon which the structure of lies was built, because the shock waves of the revelation of the truth reverberate, and continue to reverberate throughout the Earth for generations to follow, awakening even those people who had no desire to be awakened to the truth.’

The Anglo-American Establishment.

It is becoming impossible to ignore the giant elephant in the room. Despite fervent mass media efforts to discredit the truth for the last 100 years, the internet has now allowed millions, if not billions to learn about the hidden rulers of the world, their nefarious past and even more sinister intent.

Today, 6 multinational corporations own 95% of mass media. The elite control 95% of what we see. What gets on the news, content in TV, movies, magazines, video games, all influencing us as to what to buy, how to live, what we like, what we don’t like, what to think. Conditioning ideological messages abound in this social control mechanism using mind controlling propaganda.

Any attempts to threaten the dream like illusion most people believe to be reality is met with fierce opposition.

“Conspiracy theory” resounds as the most mind numbing response.

We all must remember that Richard Nixon adopted that pitch “conspiracy theorists” during Watergate.

Big conspiracy there. No theory.

The resistance to investigating claims of a conspiracy theory actually exposes the truth.

This is not rocket science. Yet, cognitive dissonance abounds. With the media’s constant bantering to discredit the truth you can see why most dismiss it. After all, these are effective tools of influence.

Also, most folks are too damned busy trying to keep their heads above water making credit card payments, car payments, house payments, and other payments, payments, payments to worry about why they have to struggle so much.

And if you do complain, the stock answer from spouses to bosses to friends and family is, “that’s just the way it is”.

If further investigation leads you to a few books like Tragedy and Hope and the Anglo-American Establishment, or you begin an investigation into the Federal Reserve, or the Council on Foreign Relations, the Tax-Exempt Foundations, or government documents, congressional records and other suppressed information, you will find the truth. And yes, you too will soon labeled a conspiracy nut.

Especially if you share your findings with the public.

Even with oligarch controlled mass media monopoly on news and pop cultural influence, and COINTELPRO disinformation, the global elite’s plans are being thwarted by an ever growing alert and active populace.

This is thanks most in part to social media and widespread availability of this truthful evidence on the internet.
People are waking up. More and more are learning the truth that has been hidden from them in plain sight. Overwhelming evidence is available to find if only you simply take the time to look.

By reading the right books and investigating the right organizations, documents and records, many are discovering the truth. A critical mass is approaching.

Recent attempts to criminalize conspiracy theories and free speech should amplify this. Tyranny abounds. The Constitution is being trampled on.

Once that balance shifts and the awakened mobilize politically, the jig is up. This is why I fear the elite are conjuring up another horrifying false flag event like they did on 9/11.

But this time, it will directly effect the entire world.

On September 14, 1994, speaking at a U.N. business conference, David Rockfeller said:

“We are on the verge of a global transformation. All we need is the right major crisis and the world will accept the New World Order.”

Indeed. 9/11 was the catalyst, the inciting incident of the New World Order, setting in motion the agenda that has unfolded in recent history. Much of it having to do with control of oil interests and establishing Rothschild owned central banks.

In 2000 there were seven countries without a Rothschild owned Central Bank: They were Afghanistan, Iraq, Sudan, Libya, Cuba, North Korea and Iran.

In 2007, General Wesley Clark (ret) reported that shortly after the terror attacks of 9/11/01 he was informed of the government’s agenda to conquer seven countries in five years: Iraq, Syria, Lebanon, Libya, Somalia, Sudan and Iran.

Interestingly, today the only countries left without a Rothschild Central Bank are: Cuba, North Korea and Iran. Well what do you know? No wonder Obama is getting so cushy-cushy with communist Cuba and softening on Iran.

Our recent history illuminates roots that were sown long ago. In “Tragedy And Hope A History of the "World in Our Time" written by Georgetown University professor Carrol Quigley in 1966, exposes the realities of this age old and ongoing agenda.

Covering the years 1880 to 1963, “Tragedy And Hope” focuses on the economic problems designed by the global elite.

Quigley, was the mentor of Rhodes Scholar and former president and Arkansas governor Bill Clinton, had unfettered access to documents from the Council on Foreign Relations for more than two years, proudly revealing the fact that secret societies have played a significant role in world history.

In fact, he very much agreed with it and wondered why so much trouble was made to keep the world government agenda a secret.

“I know of the operation of this network because I have studied it for twenty years and was permitted for two years, in the early 1960s, to examine its papers and secret records. I have no aversion to it or to most of its aims and have, for much of my life, been close to it and to many of its instruments. I have objected, both in the past and recently, to a few of its policies… but in general my chief difference of opinion is that it wishes to remain unknown, and I believe its role in history is significant enough to be known.” Tragedy and Hope pp 949–950

In his book The Anglo-American Establishment: From Rhodes to Cliveden, Quigley traces the history of a secret society founded in 1891 by Cecil Rhodes and Alfred Milner to foster the British Empire’s power and influence over the world.

Quigley wrote: “The organization was so modified and so expanded by Milner after the eclipse of Stead in 1899, and especially after the death of Rhodes in 1902, that it took on quite a different organization and character, although it continued to pursue the same goals.”

The society consisted of an inner circle (“The Society of the Elect”) and an outer circle (“The Association of Helpers”, also known as The Milner Kindergarten, The Times group, the All Souls group, the Cliveden set and the Round Table Group.) The society does not have an actual name but all affiliations are of the same group and working for the same goal, a New World Order.

Quigley notes that the leaders of this group were Cecil Rhodes and Alfred Milner from 1891 until Rhodes’ death in 1902 and Milner led the group until his death in 1925.
Subsequent leaders, Lionel Curtis from 1925 to 1955, Baron Robert H Brand from 1955 to 1963, and Adam D. Marris from 1963 until the time Quigley wrote Tragedy and Hope in 1966.

This secretive and influential alliance continues to this day under the cover of darkness. The agenda moves forward via secret meetings. First known as the Omega Group, since 1954 it has been called the Bilderberg Group.

Only until recently, within the last thirty years has the shadowy Bilderberg Group been exposed to the light of criticism.

Before the 1980’s any investigation into the group, its members and intentions was met by dead silence from the mainstream media.

For more than thirty years the Bilderberg’s existence was fully denied and shot down as a wild conspiracy theory.

Indeed, the Bilderbergers and the Milner Group have been secretly working behind the scenes and using their enormous wealth and clout to control the political systems every country in the world.

This organization also functions through certain loosely affiliated “front groups”, including the Royal Institute of International Affairs (which is today known as Chatham House), the Institute of Pacific Relations and the Council on Foreign Relations. Tragedy and Hope pp. 132, 950-952

Quigley states he was in direct contact with the international Anglo-American network. To achieve their aim of world financial domination, the organization cooperates with any group, on either side of the political spectrum, fascists, communists, anarchists, even today's radical Islamists.

Norman Dodd further exposed this reality shortly before his death in an interview with G. Edward Griffin. Below is the complete 1982 interview.

Dodd also speaks of a 1953 meeting he had with Rowan Gaither, president of the Ford Foundation, who candidly stated the Ford Foundation, Rockefeller Foundation and others wished to comfortably merge the United States with the Soviet Union.

Wouldn't you know, the Ford and Rockefeller Foundations continue to fund communist and socialist causes. Of course they do. They are collectivists.
During the cold war David Rockefeller had unfettered access to regularly fly in and out of Moscow on banking business. When he landing at the airport, he was met like a rock star with much pomp and circumstance. The Russian people loved him.

In addition, other secret societies are briefly discussed in Tragedy and Hope, including a consortium of the leaders of the central banks of several countries, who formed the Bank of International Settlements (BIS). Tragedy and Hope pp 323–324

Initially, the BIS was established on May 17, 1930 by Belgium, France, Germany, Italy, Japan, Switzerland, the United Kingdom and the United States to supposedly facilitate reparations imposed on Germany by the Treaty of Versailles after World War I.

A charter for the bank was drafted at the International Bankers Conference and its charter was adopted on January 20, 1930.

The BIS is based in Switzerland and has immunity in all the contracting states.

And we wonder why the warmongering economic hitmen and nation killers are never prosecuted for crimes against humanity.

To seal our fate of being consumed by the deathroes of economic slavery and war for all eternity, according to the charter, shares in the bank could be held by individuals and non-governmental entities.

This of course was quite convenient for the Rothschild, Rockefeller and Royals among the other Illuminati bloodline families who are among the top shareholders. They are the rulers. At least they want to be.

Quigley reveals quite openly that the Milner Group wielded considerable influence over British and American foreign policy in the first half of the twentieth century. This influence continues to this day, albeit the relationship and goals are obscured from the public and tightly hidden from view.

As a totalitarian one world government is incrementally established, any evidence of this truth is quickly shot down by the controlled mainstream media, even as history proves this alliance to be quite real and factual.

"The powers of financial capitalism had another far-reaching aim, nothing less than to create a world system of financial control in private hands able to dominate the political system of each country and the economy of the world as a whole. This system was to be controlled in a feudalist fashion by the central banks of the world acting in concert, by secret agreements, arrived at in frequent private meetings and conferences.
